

Where the Conversion Leaks Are

nomadinternet.com · CRO Recommendations · August 2026

The most valuable conversion mechanism on this site is the coverage-check form, which is the primary entry point for visitors to determine eligibility and proceed to purchase. However, this mechanism is bleeding value due to unclear form field labels, ambiguous submit button text, and duplicate form instances on the same page, all of which create friction and confusion at the critical moment of engagement.

1	Value proposition is generic The hero headline promises reliability but fails to explain what the product is or why it's better, lacking...	High	Low	5/10
2	Unclear form field labels Form fields lack explicit labels, so visitors don't know what data is required before engaging.	High	Low	4/10
3	Ambiguous form submit label The CONTINUE button label does not set expectations for the next step, adding cognitive effort at conversion.	Medium	Low	4/10
4	Duplicate pricing creates comparison ambiguity The same plan prices appear twice with different formatting, causing ambiguity about which price applies to...	Medium	Medium	4/10
5	Repeated identical form instances Two identical CONTINUE forms on each page create confusion about which to complete, increasing abandonment.	Medium	Medium	4/10
6	One-time costs appear separately One-time charges are listed separately from monthly prices, causing visitors to overlook them until later.	Medium	Medium	4/10
7	No shipping fee disclosure Shipping costs are not mentioned, leaving a cost unknown until later in checkout.	Medium	Medium	4/10

How to read this

Findings marked verified were measured directly and are reproducible. Everything else is a hypothesis derived from inspecting the live pages, which is why the PXL evidence questions score zero for those items. Sized opportunities describe the prize if a change works, not expected revenue: roughly 10–30% of A/B tests produce a significant win, and winners tend to overstate their true effect.
